

Notes on Examinations when you use a Learning Management System (LMS) such as e-learning

Note the following points when taking an examination using a Learning Management System (LMS).

- a. You are not allowed to let another individual know your password or borrow your Student ID Card.

- b. The acts outlined in a. will be considered as academic dishonesty. If the faculty council determines that there has been an act of academic dishonesty, you will fail (students enrolled in or after 2004) or receive 0 points (students enrolled in or before 2003) for all of the courses you have registered for in the semester concerned, and the decision will also be publicly announced. (Certain courses as designated by the faculty council are excluded from this measure.)
